REMINISCENCES OF THE OLDEN DAYS IN THIS DISTRICT

A Brief History of the Nelles Family Who Came to Canada, and Settled in Grimsby in 1767. Came all the Way in Canoes. One Brother Returned to the States After the War

BORN IN 1799

Col. Warren Henry Nelles was Educated in Grimsby, and Lived to be 97 Years of Age. Property That the G. T. R. Now Owns was Part of the Nelles Estate, and was Sold to to the English Church.

We print below a couple of brief articles, on the early days in the Niagara District, which we think will be interesting to our readers.

These articles were kindly supplied to us by Mr. C. S. Nelles of Grimsby.

The article regarding Col. Nelles, appeared in the St. Catharines Star on Oct. 10, 1896, shortly after his death.

The old deed refers to the property upon which is now situated the station, freight sheds, tracks and sidings of the G. T. R. and also the property upon which stands Marsh's lumber mill and yards and the flour and feed mill of Alex Harvey.

FULL OF HONORED YEARS

Reminiscences of one of the oldest landmarks in the Niagara District:

Brief reference was made yesterday to the removal of an old landmark in the person of the late Col. Nelles.

In 1767, before the war of Independence, Henry William Nelles, son of old Hendrick William Nelles, the first of the name [illegible] America, feeling his German heart would not allow him to take up arms against Great Britain, decided to go to Canada and make a home for himself and family. Accordingly, he with his sons, Robert, William, John, Warner, Abram and Peter with five slaves, started in canoes up the Mohawk river, to Fort Plain, from thence they passed over the Portage into Wood Creek and on into Oneida. Later, from there they commenced their long and arduous journey by the Oswega river to Fort Oswega, and on up Lake Ontario to the Niagara River, where they landed. They tested the soil here and finally pushed on to Grimsby, the father saying to the sons, "Here we shall make our home." After peace was declared, the American Government offered them their land back if they would return to the United States. All except Peter remained in Canada. His heart yearned for his old home; so, leaving friends and kindred, he returned and claimed the lands left by his father and mother. The old Palatine church, in New York State, which stands until this day, was built on land given by Hendrick William Nelles.

The subject of this sketch, Col. Warner Henry Nelles of Grantham, who passed away Friday morning, Oct. 9, 1896, at the advanced age of 97 years and five months, was a great grandson of the above named Hendrick William Nelles. The deceased was born in Haldimand county on May 2, 1799. He was educated at Grimsby by Rev. Mr. Fell; took his first commission as Lieutenant of the First Regiment of Haldimand Militia in 1822, and said commission was signed by Sir Peregrine Maitland He was made Captain of the First Regiment of Frontier Light Infantry, a company he raised himself in two days in 1838. His commission was

BE A BOOSTER

IF YOU CA I'T BOOST, DON'T KNOCK

If you like your own town best,
Tell 'em so!
If you'd have it lead the rest,
Help it grow!
When there's anything to do
Let the People count on You:
Strive on something big and new—
Make it go.

Buckle in and show your grit—
Earn a name!
If the other fellow's IT
Who's to blame?
Spend your money in the town
Where you pull the shekles down;
Work, to give it just renown—
That's the game.

If you're used to giving knocks,
Change your style:
Throw bouquets instead of rocks
For a while!
Let the other fellow roast:
Shun him as you would a ghost;
Meet his hammer with a boast
And a smile.

When the stranger from afar
Comes along,
Tell him who and what you are—
Make it strong;
Needn't flutter—that's good enough:
Join the Boosters—they're the stuff—
We belong.

COUNCILLOR MITCHELL CRITICISES THE WATERWORKS

We herewith print a copy of a letter sent to the Grimsby Water Commissioners, by Councillor Wm. Mitchell, in which he criticises their method of handling the system, and threatens to serve an injunction.

THE LETTER

To the Grimsby Water Commissioners, Grimsby.

Gentlemen: As I have called your attention to the fact upon several occasions, that by the operation of both pumps at one time at the pump house, thus causing too high a pressure, you would wreck the entire village pump line system of water works. I hereby give you notice that if you do not desist, and stop the above stupid and costly practice inside of one week I will apply, on behalf of myself and other citizens, for an injunction to restrain you from doing so, for the following reasons:

(1) You are causing hundreds of dollars' worth of needless expense to the citizens.

(2) You are causing great inconvenience to water consumers all in this village.

(3) You are leaving our property at the mercy of fire, as we have no water supply the greater proportion of the time, and are liable to cause a large increase in the Fire Insurance Rates.

Trusting that you will have this serious matter rectified before more damage is incurred, and this action launched, I remain,

Yours truly,

WM. MITCHELL

WILLIAM GREENFIELD KILLED WHILE WORKING AT BEAMSVILLE

Was Working With Mel. Pettit Stringing Wire Across the Cataract Wires and Apparently Got a Charge of Electricity. He was Standing on the Ground.

36 YEARS OLD

He Had Only Been in This Country Eleven Months and was One of the Bell Telephone Co's Best Men. He Leaves a Widow and One Young Son to Mourn His Loss. Jury Empanelled.

Another bad accident happened on the Bell Telephone line, on Saturday morning last, at 10.30, when William Greenfield of Grimsby, was killed while stringing wire at Beamsville.

The deceased gentleman was part of the construction gang working from Grimsby Central, and had gone to Beamsville early on Saturday morning in company with Mel Pettit to string some wire in that town.

About ten-thirty the two men were working on Mountain St., about a block south of the Beamsville Town Hall, opposite the residence of the Rev. Mr. Wass.

Pettit was up the pole working and Greenfield was standing on the ground about fifty feet away. He was pulling the wire across the top of the street and house lighting wires of the Cataract Power Co. and apparently received a charge of electricity, caused by the wire he was handling coming in contact with a bare spot on the electric wire.

Pettit, who was working on the [illegible] did not see Greenfield fall, or [illegible] anything but an old [illegible] and was standing close by, says that Greenfield just crumpled up and throwing his hands in the air, sank slowly to the ground.

Pettit, turning around on the pole, saw Greenfield on the ground and immediately rushed down to his aid. He called Fred Franklin, who was coming up the road, and they did everything possible to resuscitate him but their efforts were of no avail.

Dr. Stallwood was called and arrived in a very few minutes, he examined the body but the spark of life had fled, and he could no nothing.

The body was moved to the home of the Rev. Mr. Wass, and Coroner Alexander of Grimsby was called.

The coroner went to Beamsville and examined the body, but on the first examination, could find no marks, scars or burns.

The body was then turned over to J. C. Marlatt & Son, for preparation for burial and was brought to their undertaking parlors in Grimsby.

The coronor decided that an inquest was necessary, and the following jury was empanelled by Chief of Police Swayze: Geo. E. Miller (foreman), K. N. Grout, E. H. Culp, J. O. Konkle, R. H. Kemp, Alex Harvey, Levi Fretz, Albert Marsh, Ransom Hagar, Wm. B. Calder, Wm. Flett, W. H. Groce.

The jury met in Marlatt's parlors on Saturday evening and after viewing the remains, adjourned to meet on Thursday afternoon at 1.30, in the Council Chamber, Grimsby.

On Sunday morning Dr. Stallwood of Beamsville conducted a post-mortem examination, but what he discovered is not known.

Greenfield was a Scotchman by birth, and had only been in Canada about a year, coming to Grimsby in June of 1912, when he went to work for the Bell Telephone Co., for which company he has worked ever since.

CHORAL CONCERT A SUMPTUOUS AFFAIR

It Has Been a Long Time Since Residents of This District Have Had Such a Musical Treat Presented to Them by Local Talent

A LARGE CROWD

The Rendering of the Different Choruses was Well Received by the Audience Mr. Walter Peacock a Singer of Rare Ability. Assisting Artists Were Good.

Not since the days of the "Pirates of Penzance" and the "Mocking Bird" have the citizens of this district had such a feast of classical music presented to them by local talent as was served out by the Grimsby Choral Society at the Assembly Room of the Grimsby High School, on Tuesday night.

That it was a treat for the music lovers is drawing it mild and that the large crowd present fully appreciated the efforts of the society, collectively and individually was evidenced by the applause that greeted the rendering of each number.

The society was assisted by Miss Manson and Miss Metcalfe of Grimsby and Mr. Peacock of Hamilton.

In the opening prelude, Miss Manson on the piano was well received and her playing was delightful.

It is doubtful if Grimsby has ever heard a baritone singer of Mr. Peacock's ability before. His voice is magnificent and his singing is so easy and sweet that he at once draws you to him.

Miss Metcalfe, on the violin, was exceptionally good and received two encores.

As a whole, the evening was a most delightful one and Mr. G. G. Bourne, the conductor and the officers of the society, deserve a lot of credit for the good work which they have done.

The following is the program:

Piano solo, Fr Chopin; Miss Manson.

Chorus, "Send Out Thy Light" Gounod.

Trio, "Ye Shepherds Tell Me" Mazzinghi; Messrs Sery, Lane and Bourne.

Chorus, "With Horse and Hound"; A. J. Caldicott.

Solo, "Rolling Down to Rio", German; M. W. E. Peacock.

Chorus, "Moonlight and Music" Pinsuti.

Chorus, "Old King Cole" F. Archer.

Chorus "My Love Dwelt in a Northern Land" Elgar.

Violin solo, (a) "The Swan" Saint Saens; (b) "Tambourine" Goffic—Miss Metcalfe.

NEW SUBDIVISION OPENED IN THE EAST END

Messrs. W. F. Randall, Sterling Cook and J. H. Gibson, Turn Their Property Into Lots, and Will Place Them on the Market at Once.

2 NEW STREETS

Wilton and Ranson Ave's are the Names of the New Streets. They will be Graded, Sidewalks Laid, and Waterworks Installed. A Beautiful Building Spot.

Another new subdivision has been opened in Grimsby, this time in the east end of the town.

The new survey is the property of Messrs Sterling Cook, W. F. Randall and J. H. Gibson and faces on Maple Ave. and Main St.

This subdivision should receive the worthy consideration of all those who are intending to purchase a choice lot to erect a home, as their is no nicer spot in this district for a home than on this new survey.

A new street is to be opened from Maple Ave., east to a point in the rear of Mr. Gibson's property, and here is joined by another new street running north from the main road.

The new streets are to be laid out and graded by the owners of the property and the councils of Grimsby and North Grimsby will be asked to lay cement sidewalks along the front of the property.

In fact, the new avenues are being opened and properly put in shape and everything conceivable being done, to help beautify the magnificent homes that are sure to adorn them.

The new streets are to be known as Wilton Ave. and Ranson Ave. and the property fronting on them is that beautiful sandy peach loam and every lot is planted in fruit which is now bearing.

The new survey can rightly be termed "Grimsby's new residential section" as it is certainly a beautiful spot to build a home.

For further particulars, read the large advertisement in this issue and then watch this paper for a complete map of the new survey.

COUNCIL SESSION SHORT AND SWEET

Messrs Hewson and Bull, Complain About Water Flooding Their Property C. H. Bromley, Inspector

The Village Fathers held a session on Monday night that was short and sweet.

The application of C. H. Bromley, as scale inspector, and inspector of black knot and yellows, was received, it being the only one.

Messrs A. Hewson and H. Bull appeared before the Council, asking that something be done with the drain which runs through their property on Doran Ave., as at the time of heavy rains or spring freshets, it overflows and floods their cellars and property.

The Council promised to look into the matter.

Mr. Bromley was appointed Scale Inspector, at a remuneration of forty cents an hour. He was also instructed to see that citizens who had to spray were able to secure a suitable man to do the work. All spraying to be done subject to his approval.

Council adjourned.

THOS. STEWART'S HOME BURNED

Large House and Drive Shed Consumed by Flames. Loss About $6000. Origin a Mystery.

About 3.30 on Monday afternoon, flames were seen issuing from the drive shed of Mr. Thos. Stewart at Fruitland, and in spite of every effort to check them, they devoured the shed and the fine frame residence standing close by.

When the flames were first noticed, every effort was made to fight them, but they steadily gained headway, until the house caught fire, when the fighters saw that they could not control the fire fiend, they turned their attention to saving whatever furniture and household goods that was possible, and succeeded in saving pretty nearly everything in the house.

The house was a fine big frame building and has been built for a great number of years.

Several of the Grimsby boys who are attending college in Hamilton, passed by the spot on the trolley and got off the car and lent considerable assistance in the work.

How the fire started is a mystery and is not likely will ever be known.

The loss will be about six thousand dollars. Insurance about two thousand dollars.

CONCERT IN AID OF ATHLETIC CLUB

All Those Interested in the Futherance of Clean Manly Sports Should Attend on Friday Night.

All lovers of manly sports are invited to atend the Athletic Contests in Snetsinger's Hall, Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The purpose of these contests is show the people of Grimsby that exhibitions of physical skill can be conducted in a gentlemanly manner and are worthy of the patronage and support of our best people.

The Y.M.C.A. long ago caught on to the fact that clean athletics are the best aid to sound bodies and sound morals, and that no town lacking in athletic spirit ever developed a strong, forceful manhood. Why does every College in the country provide a Campus and point with pride to it? Because every educationalist worthy of the name knows that athletics provides a safe outlet for pent up physical energy, and that out of the physical poise and mental skill, the self reliance and ability to think and act quickly is built up, the moral force which in later life move the world.

It is a notable fact in educational life that mere intellectual brilliancy is nearly always outstripped in the world's affairs by men who laid well the foundations of a strenuous after life with splendid athletic attainments. Nearly all great men were great athletes.

The Grimsby Athletic Association has been organized to provide for the young men of Grimsby a chance to equip themselves for life in the way that nature, common sense and experience teaches. To provide recreation under proper discipline from the monotony of work, so that their leisure hours may be spent, not on the street corners, or in Hamilton, or some questionable and useless form of amusemnet, but at home in organized sports.

It is up to the people of Grimsby

ARE WORKING ON NEW POST OFFICE

Excavators Started to Work on Tuesday Morning. John Duvall Building Tool House. K. N. Grout, Inspecsor.

Work on Grimsby's new Government post office and custom house has started in real earnest and the site on Main St. at the head of Depot St. presents a very animated scene these days.

On Monday Mr. John Duvall started the erection of a good sized tool shed and cement store house on the back end of the lot.

On Tuesday morning the execavators started to work and a large gang of men are digging and shovelling out the earth as fast as three teams can haul it away.

Two teams are at work hauling gravel and sand, and some lumber as well and a great quantity of brick are already on hand.

A new post office for Grimsby is now an assured fact.

The Inspector of work on the new building is Mr. K. N. Grout and he has his hands full looking after all the details.

SUDDEN DEATH OF HARRY BOULDER

A Young Englishman, Just Arrived, Drops Dead at E. D. Smith's. Had Only Been at Work an Hour.

A peculiarly sad event was the death of Harry Boulder at E. D. Smith's Nursery, Winona, on the morning of Wednesday, the 16th inst.

The deceased, who was a gardener at Tunbridge Wells in England, had only just arrived in this country, and had been working in the nursery for about an hour only when his death occurred from heart failure.

The funeral was held on Sunday the 20th, and the interment took place in St. George's plot, Hamilton Cemetery. There was a large attendance of the Sons of England, and of E. D. Smith's employees at the grave. A very sad and touching feature in connection with this event is that the unfortunate man leaves a wife and two small children in the old country for whom he had hoped to make a home here.

Facts and Fancies

By Frank Fairborn

Let dogs delight to bark and fight,
For God hath made them so.
Let bears and lions quarrel and fight,
For 'tis their nature to.
But Jimmie Bennett ne'er should let
His angry passions rise.
His little hands were never made
To tear Will Russ' eyes.

* * * * * *

I regret to learn that in a moment of passion my old friend, J. D. Bennett, of Beamsville, struck another of my old friends, Mr. W. B. Russ, superintendent of the Queenston & Grimsby stone road.

* * * * * *

It appears that Mr. Russ had done some work on the Queenston & Grimsby stone road, in front of the property of Mr. Bennett and several other residents of Beamsville, last fall—that is what Mr. Russ is hired by the County to do.

* * * * * *

Mr. Bennett took exception to the manner in which it was done, and when the Queenston & Grimsby Stone Road Committee was going over the road the other day, Mr. Bennett laid his complaint before the committee

* * * * * *

Mr. Russ intended to keep out of the argument and to abide by the decision of the committee and remained at some distance from the committee while Mr. Bennett was explaining the matter to them.

* * * * * *

Mr. Bennett called Mr. Russ to come nearer to himself and the committee and after Mr. Bennett had told his side of the story, Mr. Russ told him that he was misstating the facts, and as he said this, he turned to go away from Mr. Bennett, when the latter gentleman struck him a violent blow in the face.

* * * * * *

Immediately several of the gentlemen rushed between the two, or Bennett would very likely have got all that was coming to him.

* * * * * *

I know nothing about the situation, as I never examined that particular piece of road. Whether Mr. Russ fixed the road right or whether he fixed it wrong, it is not the place of Mr. Bennett or any other man to come over on the road and assault the superintendent.

* * * * * *

The superintendent is engaged to look after the Queenston & Grimsby stone road, and does so under the orders of a large committee. If he, in his construction of the road, injures or interferes with any man's property or frontage, the injured one can refer the matter to the committee and Mr. Russ is always willing to abide by their decision.

* * * * * *

I do not desire to say very much about this matter at present, as it may be aired in the police court, but I do now, as I always have done, stand firmly for the protection of all public officials, in the discharge of their duty.

* * * * * *

A peculiar thing about a great many people living along the Queenston & Grimsby stone road is that they desire to see good ditches and water courses along the road everywhere, except in front of their own property.

* * * * * *

A great many people are delighted to see a good ditch in front of their neighbor's property, as it encourages the water to run off their own property, but as soon as the supertendent starts to dig a ditch or grade the road in front of their own little kingdom, then they are ready to raise a howl, and fight the superintendent to the bitter end.

* * * * * *

Mr. Bennett is not the only gentleman who is quite willing to have deep ditches in front of everybody's property but his own. There are dozens of these people living along the line, and in this respect, Mr. Russ' troubles never cease.

* * * * * *

Mr. Bennett and all the gentlemen like him, are exactly, in this matter, like I am in the matter of my relatives going to war. I am quite satisfied to have all my wife's relations enlist and go to war, just as Mr. Bennett is satisfied to have Mr Russ dig a substantial ditch in front of everybody's property except his own.

* * * * * *

In an editorial of several columns in length, the editor of the Beamsville Express replied to my comments on an article which appeared in the Beamsville Express about two weeks ago, with regard to the damage done to the Queenston & Grimsby stone road by recent rains.

* * * * * *

The previous article on the Express stated that much of the previous year's work had been ruined on account of the faulty drainage.

* * * * * *

I took exception to this statement, and said that not over one dollar's worth of damage had been done by the rains, to the newly constructed work, and that none of the material had been washed away, as was stated by the Express.

* * * * * *

I still hold to that statement, and it is a fact, in spite of the column of balderdash which appeared in the Express last week.

* * * * * *

The editor of the Express says that in two or three places holes were worn in the road. The holes which he refers to were ruts worn into the road by the constant traffic of automobiles, but there were none of these ruts washed in the newly constructed portions of the road, but in the older parts that have had no new metal for many years.

* * * * * *

The editor also states that large portions of the top dressing and some stone were carried out of the road. The stone which he saw here and there by the side of the road was left when the teams were hauling last fall, being remains of where piles of broken stone lay along the road.

* * * * * *

The top dressing which he refers to was thrown out of the road by the terrific speed of automobiles and after it was thrown along the side of the road into the ditch, it had been carried along by the water, but this same top dressing lay all along the side of the road last summer after it had been thrown off by the speed of automobiles around the curves.—It was so deep along the road-side last summer and the summer before last, that it could have been shovelled up with a shovel.

* * * * * *

The editor of the Express in his lack of knowledge in this matter, quite naturally concludes that this material was worn off the road this spring—whereas it has been lying on the side of the road for over two years.

* * * * * *

The editor's reference to plugged culverts, etc., shows how little he knows about the conditions which Mr. Russ has to contend with in fighting the water along the Queenston & Grimsby stone road.

* * * * * *

In the entire Province of Ontario there is not another road situated as the Queenston & Grimsby stone road is—it runs for its entire length, close to the foot of the mountain, and the water rushing down from the mountain towards the north, in ditches and furrows at a speed of from ten to twenty-five miles an hour, suddenly comes in contact with the stone road running east and west, were the stone road not there, this water would rush on to the lake and do no damage, but when it strikes the stone road it is forced to turn at right angles and run east or west in a ditch almost level, then the water that was running fifteen or twenty miles an hour, is forced to slow down to about one mile an hour.

* * * * * *

This allows the sediment, which was carried down by the water, to settle and fill up ditches and culverts, and these are the conditions that Mr. Russ has had to fight every year, and is still fighting.

* * * * * *

To make matters worse, Mr. Russ has to fight the ratepayers along the road in the matter of culverts.

* * * * * *

The people on the south side of the road want the water to cross the road so as to get it away from their property.

* * * * * *

The people on the north side of the road do not want the water to cross the road in culverts, but want it to continue along the road in the ditch on the south side.

* * * * * *

The consequence is that Mr. Russ has been fighting year by year to get in more culverts, to take care of the water, and he has not got nearly enough yet.

* * * * * *

When I was in the County Council some twenty years ago, this fight over culverts crossing roads was just in its infancy, and the committee and the reeves of the various municipalities had to make annual fights to get the culverts out across the road where they were necessary, in order to handle the water.

* * * * * *

Every ratepayer in the county is willing to have a culvert across the road to carry water on to his neighbor's farm, but for God's sake keep it off his farm, and Superintendent Russ has to fight this feeling from one end of the road to the other.

* * * * * *

Where there is sufficient fall in the ditch along the south side of the road to carry the water quickly, there is not much difficulty, but where the fall is slight, the sediment carried down by the fast running water from the mountain, settles in the ditch. In fighting this condition along the road, the superintendent has his work cut out for him.

* * * * * *

The difference between the Editor of the Express and myself in discussing this matter lies in the fact that I have made thousands of trips over this road, while the Editor of the Express has made one or two, or in other words, I know what I am talking about and he doesn't.

Land Values and Quantities of Fruit Raised Per Acre Take His Breath Away. Fruit Growers Bear Unmisktable Stamp of Prosperity.

VALUES IN THE NIAGARA BELT.

An English fruit-grower, travelling through Ontario, soon ceases to exclaim over the wild-raspberries that grow so profusely on woodland borders and in wayside places. But never, I think, can he fail to be surprised by the over-recurring avenues of cultivated raspberries in the orchards. And on all sides he finds the farmers rejoicing over the profits they derive from those vigorous canes drooping with their weight of ruddy fruit.

Raspberry picking, since it involves but little stooping, is more popular than strawberry picking; and in this work the farmer often enjoys the assistance of his smiling wife and of the children in their pretty frocks. Also he has less trouble than usual in retaining an efficient corps of professional pickers, such as Iroquois Indians from Caledonia—a happy-looking, English-speaking brown-skinned people who, in the clothes of the civilization they have long since embraced, look very much like respectable gypsies.

Vivid in my mind is the picture of raspberry picking at a thirty-acre farm near Beamsville, in the Belt—a farm owned by a bronzed young Englishman on whom Providence has bestowed a charming wife, a cluster of healthy little ones and a state of mind that I can only describe as one of enthusiastic contentment. Dotted along the raspberry avenues, that family were all with nimble fingers filling the little chip boxes, their industry not hindering the flow of merry conversation; while, farther afield, a group of squaws in cotton dresses and braves in homespun stood grinning and picking, picking and grinning. The doors of the barn were open wide and on a bench within was a cluster of the filled boxes, while others were stacked in crates on the floor.

I had been told that raspberries were fetching nine cents a quart (a cent being equal to a halfpenny), but, at that time, I had no clear understanding of the financial side of raspberry growing.

"When you have paid your labor bill," I remarked to the complacent young Englishman, "and when you have deducted the cost of the boxes and crate, there can't be much profit, one would suppose, out of nine cents?"

"Nine!" he laughingly replied. "But we are only getting eight and a half cents now and it may be down to seven and a half before we are through. For the season, I don't look for more than an average of eight. Out of that we have to pay two cents a quart to the pickers and the price of the boxes and crates works out at three-quarters of a cent per quart."

"Which leaves you only a shade over five cents, or two-pence halfpenny," I pointed out. Does that pay?"

"Not as well as peaches, of course," he admitted. "But it is a pretty fair return to be getting while you are waiting for the peach trees to come into bearing. At 2½d., a crate of 24 boxes would work out at 5s."

"And how many crates," I asked, "would you take from an acre of raspberries?"

"Last year," he replied, "I had 250 crates to the acre, but I think that would be above the average. You see, no man feels quite the same towards all his crops—he favors some and neglects others. I happen to be as interested in raspberries as I am in peaches, (so my raspberry crop probably comes out above the average, which perhaps you might put at 200 crates to the acre. You'll understand what I mean," he gaily added, "if you look at my blackberries. I absolutely hate blackberries—and you see the result: I suppose there isn't a more weedy lot of rows in the district."

But meanwhile I had been doing some mental arithmetic. Five shillings multiplied by 250 gives £62 10s—multiplied by 200, £50. I asked him if all his thirty acres were under cultivation and when he said that they were, I began to realize why fruit farmers of the Belt wore such happy expressions and how it came about that some of them keep motor cars.

Having a little knowledge of the returns secured from orchards in the old land, I was still thinking about those raspberry statistics when, a few hours later, I happened to enter the hall at Grimsby where fruit farmers of the district periodically assemble in the evening for business meetings and friendly chats. There was a goodly muster; and, going up to a man I already knew as the owner of a well kept orchard, I asked:—

"How many crates do you get from an acre of raspberries?"

"About 300," he replied; whereupon, thinking I had authority for doing so, I scoffed at his testimony. The result was that he instituted an interesting means of settling the issue.

"I'll call a few growers over here, one by one," he said, "and without saying why we want to know, I'll ask them how many crates of raspberries they get off an acre."

The first man replied unhesitatingly: "Three hundred."

The second man thought awhile, and then said: "Dunno that I could tell you just off-hand, but it'd be between two-fifty and three hundred."

The third man also hesitated in some uncertainty; then testified: "Anything from two to three hundred crates."

"I guess," said the fourth man, "that I'm satisfied when I get three hundred, but there's years when I'm under that figure by quite a bit."

My antagonist claimed, not without justice, that the balance of evidence went in his favor; but he had not yet done with the matter.

"Mind you," he explained, "I've purposely only called up men that I know to be good farmers—I mean, men who tackle the business thoroughly, and when they put things in the ground, whether its raspberries or anything else, don't stand around whistling, but take care that the pruning is attended to, and that the land gets all the cultivation it wants and that the right sort of fertilizer is given in the proper quantities. There are plenty of people who prefer to spend their time in other ways, or maybe they have too much land and not enough help, so that things don't get looked after as well as they might be. if you grow weeds and raspberries in the same rows and don't give the land more than perhaps one turnover in the fall, you won't get three hundred crates, or anything like it. Now, there is a man over there that we'll get to come across next. I'll ask him how many raspberries he takes off an acre, and I shall be surprised if he says more than hundred and fifty crates."

But in this anticipation my companion proved a little at fault. Said the good-tempered young Englishman in question (who obviously belonged to the engaging section of humanity that takes life easily): "Oh, about two hundred crates."

Nor was the matter permitted to rest even there.

"You see that man in flannels," exclaimed my companion, indicating an alert and prosperous-looking individual who had just entered the building. "Now, it will be quite interesting to hear what he says. It was raspberries that first brought him to this district five years ago. He was struck, the same as you might be, with the number of crates to be got off an acre. So, though he hadn't been in fruit growing before, he bought a few acres and planted the land to raspberries. I suppose the crops came up to his expectation, for he afterwards bought more land and more after that—in fact he has been going ahead ever since, and has now branched off into the canning business."

The evidence of the pushful enthusiast was certainly interesting.

"Once I got four hundred crates off an acre," he explained, "but of course that was quite exceptional. The conditions were all favorable, the crop was enormous and—just to see what an acre would do—I put on an extra lot of pickers and told them not to leave a single berry in the rows. In a general way, of course, you don't get more than about three hundred crates."

And now for a few words respecting a crop incidentally mentioned by the Beamsville farmer. An Englishman is apt to smile at the idea of planting, cultivating, pruning and fertilizing blackberries—a fruit we are content to tear our clothes and hands in securing, with the aid of a hooked stick, from the hedge row; a frolicksome party of six persons being able, on occasion, to gather as much as twelve quarts in an afternoon. Or we may buy in shops, at 4d. or 5d a pound, blackberries that have been gathered by goodness knows whom.

This fine fruit receives, and repays more honorable treatment across the Atlantic. I have never tasted better and bigger blackberries (or "lawton berries," as they are usually styled on the menu) than those provided in Canadian hotels. Taken with cream as the first dish at breakfast, they give great pleasure to the palate. In the Ontario orchards I saw and sampled several varieties—the Agawam, the Eldorado and the Kittatinny among others—each having distinct qualities to recommend it. Where the blackberry receives a fair share of the farmer's attention, it proves almost as profitable, I learnt, as the raspberry.

Here and there in the Belt you find a man who has devoted study and space to currants, which in capable hands yield a very satisfactory revenue. Among the reds, our Victoria shares public favor with Cherry (from Italy) and Fay (from New York). So far as the transparent sorts are concerned, White Grape holds the field. In blacks, our Naples and Lee are widely grown, but I travelled far before gaining tidings of Boskoop Giant. At last I heard of a recently arrived Englishman who was growing that variety and growing it successfully. One thing, however, I inquired for industriously and never found. There seems to be no "big-bud" in Ontario. Nay, I did not happen upon one fruit farmer who knew anything of the pest that is playing such havoc with black currant plantations in England.

British trouble, however, is sometimes duplicated across the Atlantic. For example, gooseberry mildew is only too well known, more particularly in connection with the cultivation of English varieties. Immunity has been secured—though at a sacrifice—by crossing these varieties with the small, sturdy, native gooseberries. The main market as with us, is for green berries. Which reminds me, the Ontario fruit farmer, unlike the English fruit farmer, is not constantly at war with feathered foes. He knows not what it is to have buds picked off by impudent tits. Battalions of shrieking starlings do not swoop down on his cherries and purloin the ripest fruit. He is under no necessity to hire boys, erect scarecrows and shoot guns, to keep winged thieves away from his strawberries. There is practically only one item in the orchard—the French cherry known as Early Purple—that is liable to serious molestation by birds.

Talking of cherries—here again is a fruit that grows to perfection in Ontario, and commands a good market. At one time "rot" proved so destructive to certain kinds that fruit farmers hesitated to enlarge their cherry plantations. But with the discovery that other kinds are apparently immune from this disease, and that in any case, it can be controlled by lime and sulphur, this branch of fruit culture has received a considerable impetus. Where cherries are grown over a wide area, there is, of course, the irksome obligation to organize a special squad of pickers; but every one setting out a new orchard is counselled to put in a few cherry trees, preferably around the house, since they develop into a remunerative little side line.

Varieties enjoying considerable popularity in the Belt are various Morellos and Dukes and—among sweet kinds—Napoleon, Yellow Spanish, Windsor (of Canadian origin), Governor Wood (a Yankee), Black Tartarian and Kentish Pie.

Mr. Linus Woolverton, an authority on the subject in Ontario, told me he had known, under exceptionally favorable circumstances, £200 to be realized by the cherries grown in one season on a single acre; and he added that, in the case of trees twelve and fifteen years old, £120 and £140 per acre was by no means an unusual gross return.

The reader will please not fail to note the age of the trees that were giving those handsome receipts. In this connection it is worth mentioning that Ontario nurserymen graft cherries on the mahaleb, in which association several kinds bear freely in the third and fourth year.

Hard to keep up. The great success of our famous black and blue suit continues. Although all winter we were manufacturing all we could to forestall the spring rush, we find that the quality of this line is so apparent to the buying public that we are having great difficulty in keeping all sizes in stock. Still we are doing it and if you want the biggest $15's worth in the clothing world, come in and get one of our No. 1961 suits. As a buyer remarked this week, he had seen lots worse at $20. Manufactured and sold direct to you by W. Farrar, 5 Market Square, Hamilton.

REMINISCENCES OF THE OLDEN DAYS

signed by Sir George Arthur. His last commission as Lieutenant-Col. was signed by Sir Edmund W. Head in 1859.

His popularity as a young man may be judged when, only seventeen, he was made a chief of a trio of Indians called the Beavers. Upon the death of the old chief they saluted him as Tahanata and the chain of Wampum they threw over his head is still in the family.

He was married at York in 1825 to Sarah Uhlein, and they enjoyed sixty eight years of a happy life together, his partner passing away about four years ago. He leaves one daughter only, Mrs. Taylor, and several grandchildren, two of whom reside on chestnut street (the Misses Nelles), Mrs. D. P. Ball, Niagara-on-the-Lake and Mr. J. Lewis Taylor of Santa Barbara, California.

Apropos of the above, an anecdote which goes to prove the great physical powers of Col. Nelles, might not be out of place here. Some six or seven years ago, when the Colonel was certainly over ninety years of age, he made his appearance about noon one pleasant autumnal day at the home of his old friend, the late Mr. Alma of Niagara-on-the-Lake, and received from the latter gentleman one of the heartiest of greetings —one of those old-time welcomes such as gentlemen of the old school know how to give—and after the preliminary handshakes were over, Mr. Alma called his man-servant and instructed him to at once take the Colonel's horse, put him carefully in the stables and attend to his wants.

Col. Nelles interrupted him by saying in his polite way, "But, my dear sir, I have no horse."

"Oh! Then you came down by train," was the remark of his host.

"No," replied Mr. Nelles, "I am sorry to say I did not."

"How on earth did you get here, then?" said Mr. Alma.

"Why, replied the Colonel, "I walked down, of course."

Think of the surprise of Mr. Alma on finding that this very old man, over ninety years of age, had really walked from his home near St. Catharines a distance of over eleven miles, to spend a few hours with him.

We may rely on the fact that the visit was none the less pleasant on this account, and that if the Colonel walked back it was not the fault of his good, old friend, Mr. Alma.

This is only one of the stories relating to the wonderful athletic powers of the man whose loss is now deplored and who leaves behind him many sorrowing friends.

A Memorial

Of an Indenture made the 22nd day of Feb. 1845, between Wm. Nelles Esq., and the Rev. Geo. Robert Field Grout, whereby the said Wm. Nelles, etc., did give, grant and convey unto the said Rev. G. R. F. Grout, rector of the rectory of Grimsby, and to his successors for ever—that parcel of land and premises, in the Township of Grimsby, containing by admeasurement, two acres more or less and being composed of part of lot No. nine, in the first concession of the Township of Grimsby aforesaid, bounded and described as follows (The lands now occupied by the Grand Trunk station and yards) to have and to hold, unto the said Rev. G. R. F. Grout, rector of Grimsby, and his successors for ever, to the uses and upon the trusts following, that is to say, upon trust to hold the same for ever hereafter, for the endowment of said rectory, and for no other use or purpose whatever.

Which indenture is witnessed by Elias T. P. Gurney, of the Township of Grimsby and John Grout of the same place.

And this memorial thereof is hereby required to be registered by me, the said Grantor, therein named. Witness my hand and seal, this 15th day of January, 1850.

(Signed) Wm. Nelles.

Signed and sealed in the presence of Elias T. P. Gurney, and F. J. Lundy, rector of Grimsby.

Memo.

This property was sold by the Rev D. Lundy, to the Great Western Railway Co., on the 31st of January, 1850, for the sum of two hundred pounds currency and the money applied in purchase of the "old rectory" house and lot, on lot 11, in the second concession of the Township of North Grimsby, containing 1 and 13-100 of an acre.

MUST PAY $500

Toronto, April 21, 1913.—Before Justice Middleton, in Toronto last week, F. F. Treleaven acted for the defendants in a motion brought by Miss Eva Wilson of that City, to recover a $3,000 legacy from the estate of Edgar Warren Smith, of Grimsby. The deceased left an estate valued at $40,000, and he directed in his will that it be given to his nephew and niece, on condition they changed their names to Smith within a year of his death. This has been done, and Mrs. Geddes and Mrs. Bertram, the mothers of the nephew and niece, who also have charge of the disposition of the estate, stated before his lordship there was no property from which the legacy could be taken.

The reason for this state of affairs was brought about by the fact that that the deceased inherited the property from an uncle. On the death of the uncle's wife, who is still living, the property was to revert to Edgar Warren Smith.

Justice Middleton directed the administratices to pay Miss Wilson $500 on account of the legacy, the balance to stand for a year, before it is spoken of again.

WILLIAM GREENFIELD KILLED

He was a careful, hard working, industrious young man and was only thirty-six years of age. He had no bad habits, and was of the class of men who help to build up a new country.

In August of last year he brought his wife and little boy out from the Old Country and rented a house from Mr. D. E. Swayze on Main St. W., where he has resided since, and from where the funeral took place.

THE FUNERAL

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon. The funeral cortege going from the house to St. Andrews church, where the simple but beautiful funeral service of the Church of England was conducted by the Rev. J. Allan Ballard.

Interment took place in Queen's Lawn cemetery, the Rev. Mr. Ballard officiating at the grave.

The pall-bearers were six of his late comrades on the Bell, Messrs Geo. Cope, M. Hilts, G. Hilts, M. Pettit, McKay and F. Franklin.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, prominent among them being a large wreath, with a silk ribbon tied around it with the word "Comrades" printed on it in gold letters.

44TH BAND BOYS MAKE MERRY

11th Annual Banquet Held at the Village Inn was an Elaborate Affair. Two Presentations.

The "Blowhards" or musicians of the 44th Regt. Band—Grimsby's Own Band, made merry on Wednesday night last, when the eleventh annual banquet of the band was held in the beautiful dining room of the Village Inn.

Sharp at eight o'clock the band boys sat down to heavily loaded tables, and that they did justice to the good things served by Mine Host Bancroft and his efficient staff is putting it mild.

The menu was a very elaborate affair and we think that Manager Bancroft outdid his best previous attempt, just a little bit.

After discussing the most excellent meal, the boys spent a pleasant hour in song, story and reminiscence.

Mr. Walter Clarke, who has been cook for the band at Niagara Camp for the past two years, was present, and gave the boys a little talk on his experiences in the British Army.

Mr. Frank Stevens, of Toronto an ex-member of the 44th rendered a cornet solo in his own classy style.

Two very pleasing incidents of the evening were the presentation to Alto player Mr. Jas. Bird, of a clock as a little remembrance from his comrades, of the fact that he has recently joined the Benedicts Band.

The other presentation was a nice silk, gold-mounted umbrella to Bandmaster F. M. Howard.

At the close of the evening's festivities the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

President, John Scott.
Sec.-Treas., R. Wismer.
Asst. Bandmaster, E. Patterson.
Auditors, Bourne and Patterson.
Property Man, Fred Lane.
Librarians, F. Wadge and R. Cloughley.

A SAD COINCIDENCE

A sad coincidence in connection with the death of Mr. Wm. Greenfield was the death in the same house—it is a double house—of Margaret Jean Alis, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Maxwell, who passed away on Monday after a fatal fight with whooping cough.

The little babe was only eight months old and had been suffering for several days with the whooping cough.

Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell live in the west end of Mr. D. E. Swayze's double house on Main St. W. and Mr. and Mrs. Greenfield lived in the east end.

On one door of the house hung white crepe and on the other door black crepe was shown, at the same time, which made it all the sadder.

The funeral of the little child is being held this afternoon at two o'clock, to St. Andrews cemetery services being held in St. Andrew church.

A NAME COUNTS

The name "Tobey" in a suit or on overcoat is an assurance of value and style, besides a certain air of exclusiveness — whether purchased at $10 or a higher price, it means that they are made under our personal supervision, both as to designing and the manner in which they are made. We have some of those fine sun-proof blue suits in our models that we are selling for $20. $25 would be at little price to ask for them, but quantity counts, we can turn over twice as many at $20 as we can at $25, so we are selling them at $20. In our boys' department we have the very latest idea in sacks and Norfolks at $3.50, $5.00, $6.75, $10, $12.00 and $15.00, and with each suit at $5 and over we give a watch a fob, a knife, a ball or a catcher's mask free. Just at this season many people find themselves suffering from aches and pains of rheumatism, sciatica, etc. For these, Zam-Buk is a sure cure.

Mrs. Mary Harman, Wheatley, Ont. writes: "I had rheumatism very badly. It affected my right arm and leg, and was so bad that I could not put my hand to my head or behind me. I was quite helpless, could not do my work and could not even dress myself, but had to be attended to like a child. The rheumatism in my leg was so bad that at times I could hardly walk.

"Naturally I tried various remedies, but they seemed to do me no good. A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk. I obtained some, and had it rubbed thoroughly into the affected muscles. Before the first box was used I was very much better. I could move around the house with ease, and dress myself, and needed very little epersonal attention. I continued with the treatment, rubbing Zam-Buk in thoroughly every day, and in a few weeks' time the rheumatism was driven completely out of my system. The cure was permanent too, and since that time I have never been troubled with rheumatism."

It is just as good for skin injuries and diseases, eczema, scalp sores, eruptions, piles, cuts burns, bruises, scalds, etc. All druggists and stores, 50c box, or by mail from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

MARKET GARDEN FERTILIZATION

Much interest is now being taken by northern and western gardeners in commercial fertilizers, and I get many letters asking about the percentages of the various plant foods to use and the amount per acre. Keep growing crops by the heavy application of commercial fertilizers only and you will soon get your soil into an acid condition that is unfavorable to many crops. There is as much need, in fact more need, on a truck farm for a rotation of crops that will bring in legume crops on the land to maintain the humus supply than there is in general farming. Around Norfolk there are lands that have been constantly cultivated in vegetables with heavy application of fertilizers, and now in many of these places they find that they cannot grow spinach or lettuce and in some even the snap beans fail because of the acidity of the land. If the early crops were always followed by cowpeas and the later ones by Crimson Clover, as a winter cover to turn for the later spring crops, and lime used occasionally to keep the soil sweet, the commercial fertilizer would have a far better effect.

On a farm where stock is fed it is always better to save and feed the legume crops, but on a market garden farm we can better afford to use them together as a means for maintaining the humus in the soil. Commercial fertilizers are all right in the market garden if you take care to maintain the organic decay in the soil, but a complete dependence on fertilizers to make crops will soon lead to trouble.

Where stable manure can be had at fair rates it will of course be a good thing for keeping up the organic decay in the soil. But manure makes a one-sided plant food, having an excess of nitrogen over the mineral elements and the gardener who depends on stable manure entirely will find that his root crops are getting short and that they make big tops and small roots. Potatoes seem to run to tops and make few tubers. Here the convenient commercial fertilizers come in very handily to supplement the lack in the stable manure. Use for this purpose liberal amounts of phosphoric acid. In the readily available form of acid phosphate, and potash in the form of muriate or sulphate. Phosphorus and potassium are the elements that are engaged in the making of starch and in its transfer in the plant for building material in the cell walls and for storing in tubers and grain. The nitrogen gives vital activity to the plant but for the crop we need the phosphate and potash.

Then, too, if a market grower uses artificial fertilizers he should buy the materials and mix them at home, so that he will know what he is using, and can vary the proportions to some extent for the various crops. For leaf crops, for instance, such as lettuce, cabbages and all plants which give their crop in foliage, he will need a fertilizer strong in nitrogen and phosphoric acid and with a smaller proportion of potash, while for root crops and tubers it will be better to make the percentage of nitrogen smaller and increase the potash and phosphoric acid, the materials that store starch and make seed.

The more organic decay you get into your soil, the heavier you can afford to use artificial fartilizers, for the moisture-retaining character of this humus will dissolve the plant-food in such a soil, while in a dead, poor soil not half as much would be used because of the failure of the moisture supply.

The Place of Lime.

I have also been asked about the use of lime in the market garden. We must remember that lime is not used as a fertilizer, but as a means of sweetening the soil and promoting the activity of the nitrifying bacteria in organic matter. It also has a tendency to release insoluble potash in the soil. There are some crops that thrive better in a soil somewhat acid, while others need lime to sweeten the soil. The potato scab will be worse on land that is sweetened by lime, as acid conditions do not favor the scab fungus. Cabbages and leaf crops in general are helped by liming while peas are helped in growth but the product made harder to cook. Beans, too, will be benefitted by liming and tomatoes also thrive better in a soil made sweet than in an acid soil. Pulverized oyster shells, used more heavily than burnt lime, are less caustic and will answer the same purpose.

SPINACH THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER

Every market grower knows how scarce spinach "greens" are in most any market during the summer months. A good demand exists almost always but the difficulty lies in supplying the demand. Of course, we have a spinach called "Long Standing." But the first week of July sees sping plantings of even this sort go to sed. Not one of the various spinaches will "stand" the heat of midsummer long enough to prove a profitable crop for the market gardener at that season.

Several years of testing all the leading spinach sorts brought home to me the realization of the fact that the solution of the "spinach problem" did not lie with the spinaches proper, sorts tested were Savoy Leaved, Triumph, Long Standing, Victoria, Round Leaved Summer, Long Season and Virofly.

The poorest sort of this test proved Round Leaved Summer, for it would not "stand" longer than five days. At the end of a week, 25 per cent of the plants showed seed stalks and at the end of ten days the whole patch became unfit for market purposes.

Savoy Leaved, which is a few days later, in maturing, proved slightly better. It stood a week before any great number of seed stalks began to make their appearance. Virofly did about as well, while Victoria proved the best of these four, since it stood well from June 25th until July 10th, going nearly three weeks to cut from the atch.

However the palm was carried off "Triunph" and "Long Season." Frankly, the difference between these sorts is so slight that it takes experts to discover it. Triumph is perhaps of a little more spreading or "flat" habit of growth while "Long Season" grows more upright. But in texture of color, fleshiness and crispness of leaves and elegant flavor, they do not differ. Both are the finest sorts that have ever come to my notice and every grower who is looking for profitable spinaches, should give them a trial.

Triump as well as Long Season reach market size about the same time as Vivtoria. However, they remain in good marketable condition nearly a week longer, extending the spinach season until nearly the middle of July. About that time the problem of "greens" was solved by the first fine young shoots of "New Zealand" Spinach. (Tetragonia expansa). This peculiar plant is of spreading growth, with fleshy stems and thick, brittle leaves. If permitted to grow undistubedly, these stems or shoots reach a length of five to six feet in a favorable season. Whenever the "tips" or branches are cut off, the side-shoots begin to expand so that the plant will produce continuously. A single plant will cover ten square feet in the course of a season. Care should be taken to plant seeds far enough apart and the seedlings are rather delicate during the early stages of development.

From middle of July until heavy frosts in October, New Zealand spinach proved a steady source of supply of the finest greens available. It had just one competitor during all these weeks and that was Swiss Chard, Luculina.

Gardeners who have a market demanding a steady supply of greens will do well to investigate the merits of this vegetable. Botanically, Swiss Chard is a species of beet. It forms no roots, however, its eatable portion consisting of the succulent leaf stalks and pretty "savoyed" or curly leaves. Swiss Chard or "Spinach Beet," as it is often called, is an ideal vegetable for market purposes as well as home gardens. Sown exactly like beets, the young seedlings should be "thinned" to stand six inches apart in the row when they are three inches high. They will grow rapidly and as soon as they crowd each other, every other plant should be cut out. These will furnish the first "greens" of that type at about the middle of July from seed sown early in May. End of July the rows, which should be about three feet apart, will be in full bearing.

In harvesting this crop of greens, always cut the outside stalks. The plants grow from the centre and Swiss Chard proves a real "cut and come again" crop, so long as the heart of plants is not disturbed. When marketing this type of "greens" call your customers' attention to the fact that you are selling them a vegetable from which they can prepart two nice dishes. The heavy creamy-white leaf stalks may be cooked and served with a dressing, like asparagus. The leafy portion of leaves will make an elegant, juicy and delicious spinach. Customers will appreciate this suggestion quite as much as the spinach greens.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

Congregations that taxed the capacity of the new Presbyterian Church at Vineland Sunday morning, afternoon and evening, listened to instructive sermons by Rev. J. A. Wilson, of St. Andrew's church, Hamilton, who occupied the new pulpit and opened the church. The collections and donations were extremely liberal and with the tea and entertainment on Monday night, a considerable portion of the cost of the new church will be raised. The members and adherents in the Vineland district are deserving of particular credit in the culmination of their efforts to establish an edifice of worship that will meet all their requirements for some time to come.

Loss of appetite or distress after eating—a symptom that should not be disregarded.

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indiscretion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and two doctors told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the NEW METHOD TREATMENT and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

Letters to the Editor

COUNTRY AND CITY LIFE

One reads and hears a great deal about the important question of "back to the land." Unfortunately, the farms and rural communities are being largely depopulated through the influx to the cities and towns.

When the search for the cause is made, we usually find that the reasons given are higher wages, better and larger opportunities, less hours, more pleasure and comfort, brighter attractions and social company.

A person is worth more because he receives more, but rather what he can do without.

Mony flows freer in town than country, the cost of living higher, the requirements greater, hence the increased expenditure.

What benefit is there to be derived in living in an overcrowded city, with smoke and dirt, bricks and stones, and unlovely looking edifices, whichever way you turn, noise, confusion and bustle of the city and crowded sidewalks.

True, in some instances, there are better opportunities and working hours, pleasure-seeking company with often poorer health.

Judge a person by their mind, character and health, not by their bank account, our best and noblest men have commenced poor, and by sheer perseverance and hard toil have attained to eminence and fame.

Most of them were raised in the country, on the farm and even in the backwoods, with nature and the heavens for their instructors. If they had not good health and constitution they would probably have never held and attained to their responsible positions.

Life is enjoyed fuller, freer, healthier and stronger. There we meditate upon the creation and majesty of God.

We have an allowance of pure fresh air, more light, lovely fields stretching as far as the eye can see plenty of room to move, everything fresh off the land and no rush with the crowd to and from business often in an over-crowded, ill ventilated cars, more often than not holding on to a strap-hanger through lack of accommodation.

The farmer is or should be an independent man, he is his own boss, works to suit himself, receives personally the product of his own labors, has a clearer mind, stronger in body, the land continually improving, crops increasing, and if his business is managed with ability and discretion should be a contented person.

Many a bright time was a visit to the old farm, because there is something deeper and more lasting, a love for nature and the natural life that the city could not give.

A free independence, the beauty and sweetness of the country, the fresh and invigorating air. The lovely and entrancing scenery improves and clears the mind, cheers them up, makes them stronger and more fitted for the strenuous battle in life's warfare—gives freer life, better, sounder, refreshing sleep.

In the city one sees the unattractive rows of brick houses, with the knowledge of having no definite home and only a rented one and constantly moving.

In the morning the country person awakes to find the sun shining brightly into the room and unwelcome thoughts are dispelled by the beauty of the horizon and the singing of the birds on a lovely spring morn.

The delights of the country are unexcelled its freedom, grandeur, restfulness, with aspirations after that which is high and noble, the glories of the Creator.

The foregoing has more reference to the basis of nature and health than to farming.

Give Your Boy a Farm

Every farmer wants to provide for his sons, but seldom will the old homestead, developed with toil, suffice to meet their needs. The boys have been brought up to the land. They are familiar with all the phases of farming. They should have land of their own. How is the farmer going to meet this emergency?

The Logical Answer is Western Canada

Thousands of acres, divided into 160 acre farms, are being thrown open for entry by the Dominion Government along or near the lines of the Canadian Northern Railway

The land gives a wide choice. There are some plots on the open prairie and others again in the well-wooded, well-watered districts in

MOTHERHOOD SUGGESTIONS

Advice to Expectant Mothers

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

Every woman at this time should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Mr. and Mrs. Cole of Hamilton were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Fairfield on Sunday.

Quite a number from here attended the services at the opening of the new Presbyterian church at Vineland on Sunday and the supper on Monday evening.

The district meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Gus Thomas on Thursday afternoon last and was largely attended.

The death occurred in Buffalo on Friday, of Leonard Riggins, son of C. E. and Mrs. Riggins of this place. Although it was known that deceased was in a very precarious condition, the news of his death came as a shock to his many friends here. Deceased had attained the age of 25, and always lived here until about 5 years ago when he accepted the position in Buffalo, which he was holding up till the time of his death. A large number from here attended the funeral on Sunday at St. Catharines.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Beamsville, Ont., Mar. 25, 1913.

To the Editor of the Independent
Grimsby, Ontario.

Dear Sir:—Will you kindly permit me through the columns of your very popular paper to express on behalf of the Beamsville residents our gratitude and keen appreciation of the earnest efforts displayed by the Grimsby Village Inn Dance Committee in inaugurating the delightful series of dances given at the Inn during the past season.

The brilliant success of these dances reflects great credit upon the members of the Committee who have spared no pains to make them all that could be desired.

Especially would I mention their closing dance held last Tuesday night, which was in itself an unqualified success due to the co-operative efforts of the committee and able management of the Village Inn staff.

Thanking you, I remain,

Yours truly,
An Habitue.

What the Resident Governor of the National Children's Home and Orphanage, Mr. Frank Hills has to say about Wodehouse's Animal Invigorator and Baby Chick Food.

Mr. Hillsl is an Ex Reeve of Barton, is widely known to be a gentleman of sound judgement and takes great interest in high class poultry.

Hamilton, Dec. 19, 1913

Mr. W. H. Wodehouse.

Dear Sir:—At the recent poultry show of the Hamilton and Wentworth Association we were persuaded to show a few of our birds. We made fifteen entries and secured eight prizes, two first, two seconds and four thirds. These were for Anconas, Partridge Wyandottes, Houdans, while two other cockerels we raised took ribbons at the same show.

We have been using your Invigator for a number of years with the greatest satisfaction. Our pullets though June hatched were in A-1 condition for the show and it is to your Baby Chick Feed and Invigarator we attribute much of our success as our birds have been remarkably healthy. The chicks know what is good, alright, and the Invigorator certainly helps to fill the egg basket.

I am
Yours truly

THE MASTER'S VOICE

The thunder rolled and the lightning flashed,
In the world outside the elements clashed.
But above all this a calm voice said,
"It is I, Thy Master, be not afraid."

Then within the room was the sweetest calm,
And angels singing some Heavenly psalm,
"So, to My followers, My presence shall be,
Throughout the long, long eternity.

As the lightning flasheth, so shall My eye,
As the thunder speaketh so shall I.
To those who hear Me and heed Me not,
Whether high or low is now their lot."

The thunder roared and the lighting flashed,
In the world outside the elements clashed,
But above it all that calm Voice said,
"It is I, thy Master, be not afraid"
